Learning from the Vietnamese

Motherhood

OUTDOOR

By [Name]

When I was a child, my father would take me to the beach every Sunday. We would walk along the shore, and he would tell me stories of his childhood in Vietnam. He would talk about the rice fields, the family, and the community. He would tell me that in Vietnam, everyone looked out for everyone else. That was the way of life. That was the Vietnamese way.

My father's stories were a mix of nostalgia and pride. He would tell me about the challenges they faced in Vietnam, but he would also tell me about the strength and resilience of the Vietnamese people. He would tell me that they were a people who knew how to take care of themselves and each other. He would tell me that they were a people who knew how to live.

Abstract. The purpose of this study was to determine whether there were differences in the prevalence of periodontitis between patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus (DM) and non-diabetic controls. A total of 60 patients with DM and 60 age- and sex-matched non-diabetic controls were recruited from a tertiary care hospital. All participants underwent a clinical examination of their periodontium. The prevalence of periodontitis was significantly higher in the DM group compared to the non-diabetic controls ($p < 0.05$). The results suggest that patients with DM have a higher prevalence of periodontitis than non-diabetic controls.

A man in a white shirt, possibly a suspect or official, looking down.

Police in Athens on Monday searched for suspects in a mail bomb campaign that has targeted several high-profile figures, including the prime minister's office.

The campaign, which began in late 2010, has resulted in the destruction of several parcels and the arrest of several individuals. The Greek government has announced that it will continue to search for suspects and will take any necessary measures to ensure the safety of its citizens.
